Proposed Amendments to ISV Constitution

ISV Fellows Nomination and Election Process

- Fellow of ISV (FISV) is a titular honor that recognizes scientists for outstanding accomplishments
- Lifetime honor maintained through active ISV membership

Proposed change to the Constitution

Proposal to change the Constitution:

To align with the changes to the ISV election process and provide additional clarity to ensure that only Fellows who have paid their membership nominate exceptional candidates to the titular honour of Fellow

- Current language:
- 5. ISV FELLOWS
- 5.1. ISV may elect people with significant contribution to the science of vaccines and to ISV as ISV fellows.
- 5.2. ISV fellows must maintain active ISV membership status with paid membership dues, and only fellows in active status are qualified to vote for new fellows and are eligible for running as a member of the Board.
- 5.3. The Past-president will coordinate the election and activities of ISV fellows.
- 5.4. Each year, existing ISV fellows may nominate certain numbers of candidates to Past-president who will solicit supporting letters from two ISV members including at least one from an ISV fellow.
- 5.5. Existing fellows will vote to elect new ISV fellows by simple majority, with no more than five new fellows elected in any given year.
- 5.4. Each year, ~~existing~~ active ISV fellows may nominate candidates to the Past-President who will solicit supporting letters from two ISV members including at least one from an ISV fellow. The ISV Fellow Nomination Committee, chaired by the Past-President and comprising all ISV Officers who are also Fellows, will consider all nominations and then present a slate of nominees for election.
- 5.5. Existing fellows will vote to elect new ISV fellows by simple majority, with only exceptionally qualified nominees ~~no more than four (and typically two-three) new fellows~~ elected in any given year.

Mission

ISV Global Vaccine Partnership is dedicated to uniting the global community of vaccinologists and vaccine supporters.

- Engage and partner with vaccine groups globally.
- Promote communication and collaboration among organizations who seek to innovate, develop, manufacture, and promote vaccines.
- Promote the development and use of vaccines to prevent and control infectious and non-infectious diseases in animals and humans.
- Engage ISV Fellows to build and promote ISV.

Our Progress

- Since the establishment of the committee, we have screened vaccine organizations globally that align with our collaborative vision, engaged in discussions with them, and invited them to join the ISV Global Vaccine Partnerships. Now, 8 organizations around the world have successfully joined our program.
- The first online virtual conference of our partners will be held before the opening of the 2025 ISV Congress, where representatives from these organizations will introduce themselves. The Committee members will serve as chairs to introduce the speakers from these organizations.
- The conference preparations are proceeding smoothly. Presentation videos along with chairs' introductions have been collected and will be merging as a single video conference.
- It will be available on Oct 27, 1:00 pm South Africa time at ISV Virtual Congress platform, open to both on-site and virtual delegates. Later it will be put as part of ISV YouTube channel and available for on-demand access to conference delegates and global vaccine community.

FROM THE PRESIDENTS DESK

LINDA KLAVINSKIS
PhD, ISV President

Dear Members of the International Society for Vaccines,

I am pleased to share important updates and highlight upcoming opportunities for you to engage with ISV and our global vaccine community.

2025 Annual Congress – Stellenbosch, South Africa (October 28–30)

In just four weeks, we will gather in Stellenbosch, South Africa, for the 2025 ISV Annual Congress at the Protea Hotel Conference venue (October 28–30, 2025). Learn more here.

Our co-chairs and scientific committee, led by Dr. Ed Rybicki, have developed an outstanding program that brings together the most exciting advances at the forefront of vaccine science. Alongside plenary and symposia sessions (detailed below), the meeting will feature poster presentations, technology-driven lunchtime workshops, and unparalleled opportunities to network with colleagues through the vFairs Virtual Platform (available to all in-person and virtual delegates).

If you have not yet registered, it's not too late. Poster submissions are still being accepted, and your active participation in discussions will make this a truly dynamic meeting. Register here.

For those unable to travel, our virtual platform provides full access to scientific sessions, exhibitors, poster presentations, and online networking opportunities. I encourage you to join us, whether in person or virtually for what promises to be a landmark event.

2025 AGM

COMMITTEE PURPOSE:

Our objective is to create a sustainable ISV organization through:

- Increasing awareness of ISV globally
- Strengthening partnerships and collaborations between academic and industry leaders

Dedicated to developing a donation and sponsorship program to ensure sustainability of our society.

- Develop partnership packages for various stakeholders.
- Ensure active industry participation in our programming.
- Support initiatives valued by our stakeholders.

Create Annual Industry Sponsor/Partnership Packages

- Platinum, Diamond; Gold; Silver & Individual sponsorships

Outreach to Companies & Organizations

- Regular meetings with industry representatives to ensure active participation in the society
- Organize quarterly mini-symposia on topics emphasizing role of industry

Outreach to individuals

- Officers; Board Members; Fellows and Others to encourage them to actively contribute to our Society.

Funds are used to create programs that fit within our mission and that are meaningful to our members and partners.

Vaccine Industry Committee Update

The Committee organized 4 virtual mini-symposia in 2025 and wishes to thank the co-organizers, speakers, moderators, ISPPD, IAS, ISV Staff & audience!
